Suwa Taisha is the head shrine of over 10,000 Suwa shrines across Japan and is one of the oldest shrines in the country. Located around Lake Suwa, it consists of four shrine precincts. Notably, it does not have a main hall, as it preserves an ancient form of worship where nature itself is revered as the deity. At the Akimiya Shrine, the sacred tree is an ancient yew tree.

Highlights include the unique Kaguya Hall with its gabled roof, a cedar tree over 800 years old, and the bronze guardian dogs, said to be the largest in Japan. The Kaguya Hall and the Heihai Hall are designated as Important Cultural Properties of Japan.
